

As usual these past few years, The federal government is catering to the sponsorship of business as opposed to the will and rights of the people. If the overwhelming majority of the people want the law, then how can you justify over-ruling it?